Image Files of the Natural & Humanistic Heritages of China's River Sources, The Third Series Yellow River is a great photo album of high archival value that takes systematic records of the landscape, history, and culture of the Yellow River. The book series has been developed following the concept of "photo archive" proposed by Feng Jikai and, from the perspective of "visual anthropology", edited by Ge Jianxiong, the well-known historical geographer. The editorial team has elaborately selected more than one thousand photos from the hundreds of thousands of precious film photos taken by Mr. Zheng Yunfeng in the 1980s and presented them with the text explanation repeatedly deliberated by experts.

The book series consists of three volumes, including Memories of Mountains and Waters, Memories of Old Days, and Memories of Ours. Among them, Memories of Mountains and Waters uses photographs to record the geological features of the Yellow River basin from its source area all the way along to the estuary, which, for the first time, enables readers to intuitively recognize through pictures the magnificent river that nurtured the Chinese nation and gave birth to the Yellow River culture. Memories of Old Days presents a large number of unearthed cultural relics and ground cultural relics in the Yellow River Basin, from the primitive society with Yangshao culture and Longshan culture to the Xia, Shang, and Zhou Dynasties, the Spring and Autumn Period, and the Warring States Period, until the Ming and Qing Dynasties, which tell the rise and fall of culture and empires in the history of China in the Yellow River Basin, allowing readers to appreciate the profound and timeless culture of the Yellow River. Memories of Ours records the living state of people in the Yellow River Basin through such aspects as residence, grazing, farming, clothing, and sacrifice, enabling readers to understand the rich and colorful humane features of the Yellow River.

《异乡人》

Stranger

书号 ISBN: 9787573615671 定价: 59 元

离开故乡，我们是地理上、地域上的异乡人；远走异国，我们是族别上、国别上的异乡人；然而返回故国故土，我们又可能是体制上、精神上的异乡人。诚如村上春树所言：“无论置身何处，我们的某一部分都是异乡人。”这种故乡与异乡、故乡人与异乡人之间的重合与错位，这种若明若暗的地带，或许正是我们许多现代人出发的地方……

Leaving our hometown, we become geographical strangers; venturing to foreign lands, we become cultural and national strangers. Yet, even upon returning to our homeland, we might find ourselves strangers within our own systems and spirits. As Haruki Murakami said, "No matter where we are, a part of us is always a stranger." This overlap and dislocation between home and away, between natives and strangers, is the starting point for many of us in the modern world.

《小孤独》

Solitude of Me

相比于屈原等古人问天问地忧国忧民的“大孤独”，我们的孤独，尤其大多数城里人的孤独似可称之为“小孤独”。它或许来自汹涌澎湃的科技浪潮对个体存在感的稀释，或许来自各种监控摄像头对个人主体性的质疑，或许来自物质主义、消费主义对诗意栖居的消解……

Unlike the profound solitude of ancient figures like Qu Yuan, who pondered the heavens and the state of the nation, our modern loneliness—especially that of urban dwellers—can be termed "little solitude." This feeling may stem from the overwhelming tide of technology diluting our sense of self, the pervasive surveillance cameras questioning our individuality, or the encroachment of materialism and consumerism eroding our poetic way of living.
